CASE STUDY – [Compulsory]

Sujoy Industries Ltd was about to install a new incentive plan for the operative workforce in all its plants. The new plan was designed to enable high producing workers to earn 20 to 25 percent more in weekly earnings. The rationale of the new plan was stated by the Executive Director of the company in the following words :

We are installing the plan to discourage the workers from socializing so much. Their output is satisfactory now, but if they would give all of their attention to the work and stop talking to each other about other things, they could produce a lot more. I know the work is not too difficult, anyone can learn one of these jobs in a few days. But we need more commitment to high performance.
